Notice of Privacy Practices

This notice describes how health information about you may be used and disclosed, and how you can get access to it. Please review it carefully.

Effective date: [effective date]

My commitment to your privacy

I am required by Texas law, including Texas Health and Safety Code Chapters 181 and 611, to keep your health information private, to give you this notice, and to follow it. Mental health information receives extra protection under Texas law. I will not use or share your information other than as described here unless you give me written permission.

How I may use and share your information

- Treatment. To provide and coordinate your care, including discussing your care with my clinical supervisor, Don C. Zablosky, MS, LPC-S. I will share information with your other health care providers only with your written authorization, except in an emergency.
- Payment. To bill you and collect payment for services.
- Practice operations. To run my practice, such as using secure services that store records or process payments. These businesses must agree in writing to protect your information.
- As required or permitted by law. In the situations described in the confidentiality section of my Informed Consent and Disclosure Statement, including preventing imminent physical injury, reporting abuse or neglect, responding to a court order, and responding to the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council.

I will never sell your information or use it for marketing. Most uses of psychotherapy notes require your written authorization.

Electronic disclosure

Your health information may be stored and shared electronically, for example through my secure records system. Texas law prohibits the electronic disclosure of your protected health information for any purpose not described here without your authorization, unless the law requires or permits it.

Your rights

- See or get a copy of your records. Make a request in writing. I will respond within 15 business days. If I believe that seeing part of your record would be harmful to you, I may withhold that part. I will tell you why in writing, and you may ask for it to be released to another professional of your choice.
- Ask me to correct your records if you believe something is incorrect or incomplete.
- Ask for confidential communication, such as contact only at a certain phone number or address.
- Ask me to limit what I use or share. I will consider every request.
- Get a list of the times I have shared your information outside treatment, payment, and practice operations.
- Revoke an authorization in writing at any time, except for information already shared.

- Get a copy of this notice at any time, on paper or electronically.

If there is a breach

If your unsecured health information is ever accessed or shared without authorization, I will notify you as required by law.

Questions and complaints

If you have questions or believe your privacy rights have been violated, please contact me at (972) 482-9526 or attya.llc@gmail.com. You may also file a complaint with the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council, the Texas Attorney General's Office, or the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office for Civil Rights. I will not hold it against you or retaliate for filing a complaint.

NOTICE TO CLIENTS

The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council investigates and prosecutes professional misconduct committed by marriage and family therapists, professional counselors, psychologists, psychological associates, social workers, and licensed specialists in school psychology. Although not every complaint against or dispute with a licensee involves professional misconduct, the Executive Council will provide you with information about how to file a complaint. Please call 1-800-821-3205 for more information.
